Darcy joined JE Dunn in 2011 and is now Sr. Vice President of Business Development for the Kansas City market. She creates and executes new business strategies for civic & cultural, corporate, government, multi-family, justice, and community work. Darcy works closely with JE Dunn's operational executives and leads the marketing team to generate a comprehensive message, articulating the team's approach for each client's unique project. Darcy is also responsible for external partnerships and consistently fosters and develops relationships across Kansas City, including architecture and design, real estate, and the arts and culture communities just to name a few. Darcy has a lifelong passion for historic and urban design, and community development, evident in her professional success and community engagement as she serves on many boards in these areas. She has lived in Chicago, Dallas, and Los Angeles; in 2004 she moved to Kansas City. Darcy and her husband Lindsey have 3 grown sons.
