Astrodome Conservancy to Host Market Day to Engage Investors, Philanthropic Partners, and the Development Community

HOUSTON, TEXAS — The Astrodome Conservancy announced today that it will host a Market Day on May 27, 2026 as part of a national market outreach effort to inform the future of the Houston Astrodome. The session will convene a cross-sector group of prospective partners, including developers, private investors, philanthropic and mission-driven capital providers, operators, and public-sector stakeholders, to explore financially sustainable pathways to reactivate the iconic landmark.

Market Day will provide an overview of the asset, project guiding principles, illustrative program and use scenarios, and preliminary considerations related to delivery and partnership structures. The Conservancy will seek practical feedback on feasibility, risk allocation, and information that participants would require to evaluate the opportunity and inform a subsequent Request for Information (RFI).
